PARIS GREEN.

Wanted to Die in a Ball
Dress.

Mystery of a New York
Tenement.

A Wealthy Woman Tries to Suicide.

A Romance and a Secret Locked in the Breast of a Handsome Young Woman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—A determined but unsuccessful attempt at suicide was made early last night by a woman known as Lena Johnson and Mrs. Charles Wagner, who for several months has been living at No. 161 East Thirty-second street.

She is young, good looking, the possessor of ample means and has been living alone with a maid and a man servant in luxuriously furnished apartments over a blacksmith's shop in one of the shabbiest houses in West Thirty-second street. She robbed herself in her most expensive ball dress at 8 o'clock last night, put on her diamond earrings, bracelets and necklace, and then swallowed a dose of paris green large enough, according to the doctors, to kill half a dozen men.

The maid, Elizabeth, discovered her mistress in convulsions on the bed at a quarter to nine o'clock and sent the man servant, known in the neighborhood as "Jimmy," to notify the police.

Policeman Hagau summoned an ambulance, in which the woman in all her finery was taken to Bellevue hospital. Drs. Ross and Gibson went to work with emetics and a stomach pump, and in an hour managed to revive her. She coolly denied taking the poison, and refused to say anything further, referring her questioner to James Wagner, of No. 92 First street.

Inquiry at this address failed to find Wagner or any one who had ever heard of him. The woman will recover. The maid told the police evidently all she knew of her mysterious mistress.

"Madam is Polish," said the girl, "and awfully rich. Every month she receives large remittances from her home, but she is always quiet and always sad."

THE BODY OF A SAINT.

A Portion of It Said to Be in a New York Church.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—The Rev. Father Tetrean, whose zeal in establishing the French Canadian church of St. Jean Baptist in this city, of which he is pastor, and who has made its altar a shrine sought by the afflicted from near and far who believe in the power of the saint to heal, is delighted over the arrival today of another well authenticated relic.

Mgr. Marquis of Quebec, who has been to Rome and France, and who arrived today on the La Champagne, brought with him a piece of the body of St. Jean Baptist, and the largest portion of the body of the saint which has yet been cut from the remains which are believed to repose in the Basilica of Aiphath in the province of Avignon. Since Father Tetrean obtained the tiny particle of the saint's body, which is in the shrine of the church, he has been endeavoring to get a much larger piece.

Mgr. Marquis and Father Tetrean are great friends, and so it came about when the former went to Rome the latter asked him to intercede with the archbishop of Avignon for a very considerable portion of the saint's body. The monsigneur was successful in his mission, and there is great rejoicing at the church.

The piece Mgr. Marquis has brought is eight or ten inches long, and is the largest fragment outside of the Basilica Aiphath. The piece in the church is a mere fragment about two inches in length.

This gift, said Father Tetrean, takes on exceptional significance from the fact that the tomb of Saint Ann, recently opened in Jerusalem, was found to be empty, which partly confirms the tradition that Mary Magdalena, Martha and Lazarus, in fleeing from the city, carried the body with them and landed at Marseilles, the capital of the province.

FIRE ARMS FOR SPIES.

How Governor Tillman is Carrying Out the Liquor Dispensary Law.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—The state dispensary law is obnoxious to the public in some places and it is not probable that prying emissaries will be tolerated. In Sumter yesterday they were beaten and assailed with rotten eggs. Governor Tillman said yesterday that he was tired of having state officials insulted, and unless it should be stopped somebody would be hurt. Then he showed cabinets filled with revolvers and belts, and when asked what they were for, he replied: "Look at sections 517 and 518 and you will see."

"How many have you got?" was asked.

"Oh, all we need. They won't rotten-egg any more state constables. I am going to issue instructions that they shall use them when it is necessary."

Old Soldiers Displeased.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—The local posts of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Union Veteran Legion met recently and passed resolutions calling for a meeting of all the posts and veterans of Allegheny county, at Old City Hall, for today, to protest against the rulings on the pension laws by Secretary Hoke Smith. The resolutions will be presented to the national encampment at Indianapolis in September.

THREW BEER ON HIM.

Sensational Suit Involving Some of the Upper Ten of Decatur, Ill.

DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—Attorneys have been engaged for a lawsuit that is attracting much attention on account of the prominence of the parties. Henry L. Mathews, manager of Loeb's iron foundry, was sitting Sunday night on the walk in front of St. Nicholas hotel, when a glass of beer was thrown on him from the balcony above. He went up and found Dick Cannon of Danville, nephew of Congressman Joe Cannon, with his wife and Will S. Ennis of Decatur. They had glasses and bottles of beer, but denied throwing beer on Mathews.

The latter claimed that his clothes had been ruined, and demanded $40 for them. This was refused. He then engaged Attorney Buckingham and Schroll to bring suit against Mr. and Mrs. Cannon, Mr. Ennis, Landlord Charles Laux of the hotel and Tommy Andrews of the St. Nicholas bar.

Ex-Senator W. C. Johns has been engaged to defend Mr. Ennis. The suit would not attract much attention, but for the fact that all the parties are of the best social circle of this city, and the hotel is the best one here.

PLUCKY CASHIER.

He Declines to Hand Over the Cash to a Robber.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—An unknown tough looking individual walked into a St. Louis county bank at the West End shortly after 2 o'clock today and presented a revolver under the nose of Cashier Chas. A. Britts, demanding that he forthwith hand over all the cash in the institution. Cashier Britts is a small man and was alone in the bank. Instead of forking over the lure he gave a terrific yell of "police!" and followed it up with sundry yells. Either the bank robber was nervous or thought the chances too great for he went out of the door like a shot. He leaped upon a horse he had left in front of the bank and fled eastward on the boulevard. The police got after him at once with horses. At a point near Fifteenth avenue his horse gave out and fell and he took to the woods. The horse proved to be one hired at Nichols livery stable at 11:30 a. m. The point where he took to the woods is about 50 blocks from the bank. The police think they will capture the fellow.

CHEERFUL IN MEXICO.

More Land Under Cultivation Than in Any Previous Year.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—Bank managers here take a very cheerful view of affairs. They say that debtors are paying up without trouble as fast as notes fall due, and the National Bank of Mexico shows a gain of over $1,000,000 in cash as compared with its statement a month ago. This bank is paying its semi-annual dividend of 7 per cent, and the Bank of London is paying 8 per cent half yearly. Continued good reports from the crops add strength to the situation.

The London Statist's statement that the area of cultivation this year has not been increased, is erroneous, a much larger amount of land being under cultivation than in any previous year. It is believed that the government can get on without making any new foreign loan.

Eloped and Were Married.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 11.—I. H. Harper and Miss Samantha Wilford, residing north of Elktion, Ky., left their homes yesterday evening, riding mules, for Clarksville determined to marry contrary to the wishes of obdurate parents. Arriving here about 8 o'clock, having been on the road all night, the county clerk was applied to, a license was issued, and a magistrate said the words that made them husband and wife. After partaking of a light breakfast the happy couple remounted their mules and started back to their Kentucky home. They will arrive some time tonight.

Fight in Guthrie City Council.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 11.—At a meeting of the city council late last night the Republican mayor refused to put motions made by Democrats, who are in the majority, and the Democrats put their own motions and deposed the city clerk, who is charged with being short in his accounts. The clerk then knocked one of the councilmen down with a chair and a general row ensued. The police cleared the room.

Great Northern after Russian Trade.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 11.—F. C. Davidge states that one of the first details of the arrangement made at St. Paul in regard to the equipment of a Great Northern fleet of trans-Pacific steamers was that they should call at Vladivostok. This will be the first Russian-American line of modern steamers to have an existence.

Allotment Work Almost Complete.

An Agreement Reached as to the Silver Debate.

The House Ready to Vote on the Silver Question About
August 28.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—The conference of silver and anti-silver men have reached an agreement by which the general debate on a bill for the repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman act, will be limited to eleven days. This will be followed by a debate of three days under the five-minute rule, when the voting will begin on the bill and various silver amendments.

It is the present arrangement that the repeal bill will be introduced in the house today and that an accompanying resolution shall prescribe the method of procedure and the general debate to begin at once. If carried out this program will bring the house to a vote on the bill and amendment about August 28. On assembling the house, immediately after the reading of the journal, Wilson, Democrat from West Virginia, introduced the repeal bill. The silver men's part of the program, is to offer the first substitute looking to free coinage at the present ratio, and if defeated, votes will be taken on amendments fixing the ratio at 17, 18, 19 and 23, in the order and finally, if this fail, upon the Bland-Allison act.

Cleveland's Indifference.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Cleveland and Lamont left this morning at 7 o'clock, the former going to Buzzard's Bay and the latter to New York. President Cleveland has made a statement for publication, giving reasons for his leaving Washington at this time. He says that he has not sufficiently recovered from the strain which he has been undergoing since the fourth of March and is going to the seaside to rest. He has been advised that rest is absolutely necessary to his health and strength, and says that he is going to devote himself to recreation during the month of August. He requests to be free from the attention of newspaper correspondents.

HIS COURAGE FAILED HIM.

He Caught the Boy, But Appearance
Were Too Strong Against Him.

He was a well-dressed, well-fed, florid-complexioned man, who carried a cane and an air of self-satisfaction as he sauntered up Sixth avenue, says the New York Recorder.

Suddenly this complacency was interrupted by a stick of wood which struck him square on the bridge of the nose, and emanated from a larger stick held in the hand of a street gamin who was playing "flip" on the sidewalk.

The man made a rush for the boy, and the boy for the middle of the street. On they flew, through slush and debris, until the man overtook the gamin about a block and a half from where the race began.

Up to this time the boy had been very game, turning every few jumps to laugh in his pursuer's face and put his thumb to his nose in a manner most infuriating. But when he was collared he changed policy and began to sob as if he were being murdered.

Of course there was the usual crowd of lookers-on, most of them women, who, according to their proverbial sympathy with the under dog, pelted the man with such tongue missiles as: "See the great, big, cruel-hearted monster! To beat a poor, little, innocent child like that! He ought to be tarred and feathered!" etc.

The man's courage failed him. Holding the boy at arm's length, he looked regretfully at him a moment. He wanted to pummel him, but giving him one feeble, perfunctory little shake he sat him gently on his legs and, crossing the street, continued his way.

WATER CATS.

Many Sportsmen of the Nile Train Foss to Become an Expert Fisher.

Though it seems somewhat difficult to understand how the sportsmen of the Nile trained their cats not only to hunt game, but to retrieve it from the water, the hunting scenes depicted on the walls of Thebes afford proof of the Egyptian cat's service in this respect. In one of these representations, says the Boston Globe, puss is depicted in the act of seizing a bird that has been brought down by the marksman in the boat; while in another scene the cats are seen in the boat ready for their work.

Thus, it appears, from these ancient illustrations of field and other sports, that the Egyptians were able to train their domestic cats to act in the same way as our modern retriever dogs do.

It is generally supposed that nothing will induce a cat to enter water, but this is clearly a fallacy, like many other popular notions about the animal world.

The tiger is an excellent swimmer, as many have found to their cost; and so the cat, another member of the tiger family, can swim equally well if it has any occasion to exert its powers, either in quest of prey or to effect its escape from some enemy.

As cats are exceedingly fond of fish, they will often drag them alive out of their native element whenever they get the chance.

They have even been known to help themselves out of aquaria that have been left uncovered, and on moonlight nights they may be seen watching for the unwary occupants of a fish pond, during the spawning season especially.

HIS BRIDE A PRINCESS.

A Relative of Coteaway to Wed a New York Negro.

Sara, a full-blooded Zulu princess, and a relative of the great warrior, Coteaway, is to be married to Robert Bates, a colored man of New Milford, N. J., says the New York Recorder. Sara is 16 years of age and was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Dance, an English couple, while in Africa on their wedding tour in 1879, when the British were fighting the Zulus. Mr. Dance lives near New Milford.

Sara's father was killed in battle, and his widow was pleased to see one of her children fall into good hands. The princess is an expert player on the harmonica and piano. She was abducted in November, 1891, and was missing for three weeks. She was afterward found in a house on Thompson street, New York. Anthony O'Brien and Harry Davis, colored, of New York, were indicted by the grand jury at Hackensack for the abduction, but they were never tried on the charge.

The intended husband of the young princess is an industrious, middle aged man. He is a widower, his wife having been killed by lightning a year ago. The wedding is expected to be quite an event in colored society circles.

MEXICAN EDITORS FIGHT.

A Duel in Which Nobody Was Injured.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 11.—[Associated Press.]—Rafael Reyes Spondola, editor of El Universal, considering himself injured by certain paragraphs which appeared in Gil Blas, demanded satisfaction from Francisco Hoces de Oce. Pistols at twenty paces were the terms decided upon. Principals and seconds met on the Paseo and proceeded to the Bomas de Santana, where the fight took place. Three shots were fired without result, after which the seconds brought the affair to a conclusion.

In Middle Smithfield, Pa., there is a chestnut tree the trunk of which measures nineteen feet in circumference, breast high.
